Severely Injured and Burned
While Operating An Ironing Device.

While operating an ironing machine in the Imperial laundry, Miss Clara Waggoner, an employee, caught her hands in the mechanism and before the machine could be stopped by frightened employee, her fingers were terribly lacerated and burned.

The girl's hands remained in the machine but a short time but it was sufficient to cause her intense pain and her screams brought others employed in the same room to her assistance.

Dr. Spargo was summoned and after stitching the cuts, he dressed the burns and the young woman was taken to her home. She will be unable to work for some time.

ALL HE HEARD WAS THOSE REPUBLICAN LIES

W. B. Walton, well known Democrat and popular editor and attorney of Silver City, Grant County, passed through Albuquerque this morning en route to Denver, where he has been called on legal business.

"Are you going to Washington?" asked a friend who met him here.

"I am not going to Washington—I am going to Denver," replied Mr. Walton.

"Did you attend the meeting of the Democratic central committee at Albuquerque when it sent the committee of five to Washington?" was the next question.

"Say this is presuming too far," said Mr. Walton. "All I know about that committee meeting is the Republican lies you've been reading lately," said Mr. Walton with a grin as he climbed aboard the train.

On the same train M. T. Everhart and wife of Silver City were also traveling to Denver. Mr. Everhart is manager of the Hatchet Club company and well known in New Mexico.

BODY OF ALBUQUERQUE BOY BROUGHT HOME

The body of Walter McElvain, who was killed in El Paso last Monday by a live wire, will be brought to this city for burial.

McElvain, who was a nephew of Grant Burgess of this city, was a carrier for the El Paso Herald.According to the story of a companion, Thompson, he and Walter Mc-Elvain had been strolling down Willow street when they came to Bassetti, where they discovered an electric wire hanging from a pole. Mc-Elvain touched it with the tip of one finger and several sparks flew out.
Annoyed at the exhibition, he asked
Thompson to put his hand on the wire.
This he refused to do and placed both hands behind his back.At the same moment McElvain grasped the wire and felt near and a shower of sparks. Calling another boy to his aid, Thompson picked up the body of his fallen companion and carried it to the McElvain home, about a half block away. Medical aid was at once summoned but the boy was found to be dead. Judge H. E.
Stacy was then summoned to hold an inquest over the remains.The deceased was a son of W. Mc-Elvain, who is employed as a moulder
